July 7.

The Shore Codfishery Good.

The shore fisheries of the Maritime Provinces and the Gaspé coast seem to be unusually good this season, but the weather has been so bad for drying that in many places, fish have had to be heavy salted and held for a different cure, says the Halifax Maritime Merchant. It is just possible that the quality of the shore catch this year by reason of the absence of drying weather during June will not be as good as usual.

SEALERS FACE NEW DIFFICULTY

The Newfoundland seal fishery operators, who have just ended the most disastrous season's work on record, now find themselves confronted with another difficulty. The British admiralty has decreed that seal oil may not be exported from British possession because it is, first, a foodstuff, and second, a lubricant. Seal oil, as refined, is used extensively as a substitute for olive oil, after the stearin has been extracted, and also as a constituent in the making of substitutes for lard and other such commodities. It also has a proportion of glycerine, about four per cent, which is used in the manufacture of nitro-glycerine and other explosives.

Attempts to utilize the skins of the seals in connection with the war work of the British army and navy failed. A series of official communications dealing with this matter show how efforts were made through the colonial office at London to induce leather workers and others to experiment in the employment of these skins and how it was found impossible to turn them to any account.—Fishing Gazette.

'T WAS FRED'S BIG TRIP-NOT BILL'

There are three of the famous Morrisseys who fish out of this port. Capt. Fred, William and Clayton, all are hustlers of the first water.
